

POLISH ARMS EXPORTS IN 2013–2018 AS A FACTOR IN BUILDING MILITARY SECURITY

Summary

The state of security of Poland is a derivative of the rank that both the near and the distant perspective give defense to the state authorities. Poland's security radically changed after adoption of the new political system. Poland became a member of the NATO and the European Union which enhanced its security. The purpose of the article was to analyze arms exports in 2013–2018 as a factor in building military security. Military security includes various activities in the area of national security, in particular in the field of counteracting military threats. The literature analysis, the legal acts and analysis of statistical data have been applied as methods of the research.

Key words: export of arms, military equipment, military security.

JEL codes: F59

Afiliacja: dr Joanna Antczak

Akademia Sztuki Wojennej w Warszawie

Wydział Zarządzania i Dowodzenia

al. gen. Antoniego Chruściela "Montera" 103

00-910 Warszawa

e-mail: j.antczak@akademia.mil.pl