

Politics – Power – Administration – Management. Analysis of Concepts Scope

Abstract

In accordance with the amendment to the law on higher education, the so-called Law 2.0, a new discipline called the political science and administration was introduced to the legal order. The new discipline included political science, administration (excluding administrative law) and management science (humanistic aspect). The purpose of the article is to present a range of denotation of individual concepts and to determine the mutual relations between the constituent elements of the new discipline. The analysis refers to the issue of the relationship between the created legal reality and the academic practice.
